

21 days to a better me...day 14

No, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him who loved us.

Romans 8:37

I believe that I can become a better me by remembering who I am in Christ. Everyday the enemy shoots something at me that is designed to make me question myself, my ability and mostly my faith. He goes to the trouble of reminding me of my past mistakes in an effort to make me doubt my stance in Christ. He knows that if he can make me doubt myself and my place in Christ, I will be an ineffective witness for the Kingdom.

I believe that drawing others to Christ takes a boldness that only comes from knowing who we are in Christ. It's that boldness that will give us the courage to stand up for our Lord when the world really doesn't want to hear it most of the time. It's that boldness that convicts us to do the right thing when doing the wrong thing is so easy.

The Word says that I am fearfully and wonderfully made. It says that I am above and never beneath. It says that I am blessed. When the devil whispers in my ear that I am nothing, done to much wrong, never going to amount to anything...I can hit him with the Word of God which says that I am a new creature in Christ. I can tell him that I am saved, sanctified and filled with the Holy Spirit. I may have to remind myself all day long of who I am in Christ and who I belong to but it is worth the effort.

God promised to be with me in all that I go through!

Therefore, if anyone is in Christ, he is a new creation, old things have passed away, behold all things have become new.

2 Corinthians 5:17